Group of Young People Trapped in Mountain Cabin in Bulgaria, Contact Is Lost

21 February 2009, Saturday

Civil Defense rescue teams from the city of Stara Zagora, with heavy chain machines and other equipment, are trying to reach a group of people trapped in a mountain cabin in Stara Planina. Photo by BGNES

The group left for the mountain two days ago and there has not been any contact with them or with the cabin's keeper since then.

The rescue operation is continuing.

Civil Defense rescue teams from the city of Stara Zagora, with heavy chain machines and other equipment, are in the area trying to reach the cabin.

The group left for the mountain two days ago and there has not been any contact with them or with the cabin's keeper since then.

The rescue operation is impeded by the strong winds and snow drifts, the Civil Defense spokesperson informs.

The Muglitz Mayor said that the cabin did not have electricity, but was stocked with wood, adding he hoped the young people have brought enough food with them.
